FOREWORD

Almost seventy years ago the Reverend Robert Gray published the first edition of The McGavock Family. His labors as compiler and keeper of family records have been admired by two generations of the family who have come to an awareness of the value of such a book—of knowing who you are and where you are from. Because this little volume has been long out of print, it is now a cause for rejoicing that a McGavock descendant, Bradley Whitfield, is making it available again to the progeny of James McGavock and Mary Cloyd and to librarians and historians.

Although I cannot speak as a member of the family, I can speak of an editor's indebtedness to Reverend Gray and this volume. In 1957 when I first began to edit the manuscript journals of Randal William McGavock—who is #100 in Gray, and thus the 100th descendant of James McGavock #1—I immediately became aware that I would make little progress without the help of a knowledgeable genealogist, for Randal William McGavock the diarist respected family ties and the names of kinsmen appear on about every page. If my co-editor Jack Allen and I had not had in hand the Reverend Gray's meticulous family record, our book Pen and Sword: The Life and Journals of Randal W. McGavock might still be in manuscript. That indispensable copy of Gray which we begged at the time from a McGavock kinsman was a steady reference and a constant source of enlightenment. Another copy, annotated in Virginia, was later presented to me by Miss Mary B. McGavock of Max Meadow—when she saw I was in earnest, I suspect—and it remains one of the most valued "histories" in my personal library.

Editing the journals was a specialized task and Gray's book answered the many demands we made of it. But The McGavock Family has the scope of an even larger book; it charts the movement and outlines the progress of an exemplary Scots-Irish family from 1750 to 1900. As colorful participants in the great migration from Northern Ireland to America in the eighteenth century, the McGavocks and their kin contributed in heroic measure to the dramatic settlement and growth of the Old Southwest of the United States. Through the pages of this book they move from Pennsylvania to the Valley of Virginia, to Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas, Texas, and finally California. Here the archetypal pattern of migration is brought into focus; here we are furnished details of movement and settlement which are either sketchy or even ignored in the annals of similar Scots-Irish families that formed the cutting edge of the great frontier as it moved westward.

It is now two centuries since James McGavock of County Antrim landed at Philadelphia with one pound in his pocket and "resolved to make his way in the New World by the strength of his arms." The readers of this book—whatever their relationship to James, or whatever their final answers to "Who am I?"—can take pride in what these pages have to say to them and to their children and their children's children across the tablature of years.

PREFACE

"There is a deep significance and a profound philosophy in that Divine economy enjoined upon the ancient Israelites to preserve their ancient pedigrees, and to hold in sacred veneration the memory of their forefathers: and so it was that when the CHILD JESUS was born of this race, though of humble and obscure family, Matthew was able to give his paternal pedigree, as the son of Joseph, back through forty-two generations to Abraham, and Luke, his maternal pedigree, as the son of Mary, through seventy-six generations to Adam.

"Nothing, at first sight, seems less interesting or less instructive than a genealogical table—a mere register of names and dates. But, each of these names is the memorial of a human heart that once lived and died—a heart that kept its steady pulsations through some certain period of time, and then ceased to beat, and mouldered into dust. Each of these names is a memorial of an individual human life that had its joys and sorrows; its cares and burdens; its affections and hopes; its conflicts and achievements; its opportunities wasted or improved, and its hour of death. Each of these dates of birth, marriage and death! Oh! how significant! What a day was each of these to some human family, or to some circle of loving human hearts."

Daniel Webster once said: "The man who feels no sentiment of veneration for the memory of his forefathers; who has no natural regard for his ancestors or his kindred, is himself unworthy of kindred, regard or remembrance."

The name McGavock is Scotch or Scotch-Irish, and if there is any family of the same name in the United States, other than the one of whom this work treats, after long and careful search, I have failed to learn of it. No descendant of James McGavock, Sr., who has been heard from, has been omitted from this history; and if there are any left out, the reason is that repeated enquiries have not been responded to.

Wherever the McGavock blood has flowed I have endeavored to trace it, and have given it a place here; because, "While the male line alone perpetuates the mere family name, both male and female lines, alike, and in equal degree, perpetuate the blood, whatever names they or their descendants, to the remotest generation, may chance to bear. They are equal heirs in blood, and equal heirs in law."

To the Hon. Nathaniel Morgan, of Hartford, Conn., I am indebted for the plan of this work, and the larger part of this preface, he having generously given me the privilege of using a work of his, James Harris and His Descendants, as it pleased me.

To all who responded to my enquiries, by letter or otherwise, I return thanks for the information afforded me. That information has been obtained by correspondence and personal interviews with many individuals in a dozen of these United States, by visiting cemeteries and inspecting family records, and is submitted to the living descendants of James McGavock with the hope that it may both profit and please every one of them.

EXPLANATION

Each generation is given separately and in regular order of succession.

Each name has its fixed catalogue number in the margin, and if carried forward for further history retains its fixed number.

To trace backward, take the name and number of any particular one in the margin; the name and number of that one's parent will be seen at the head of this particular table; the name and number of this parent is to be found in the margin of the preceding generation, while the name and number at the head of this table show the grandparent, and so through each generation the entire line is shown upward to the original ancestor. One example will suffice. Take David Gray Langhorne, No. 1243, son of Maurice D. Langhorne, No. 699, son of John A. Langhorne, who married Margaret L. Kent, No. 242, daughter of Jacob Kent, No. 55, son of Col. Joseph Kent, who married Margaret McGavock, No. 6, daughter of James McGavock, No. 1, and common ancestor.

To trace downward, reverse the process.

The relationship between any two of the family may be found by tracing both lines upward until they unite in a common ancestor, and then noting in a third column the several degrees of kinship from that common ancestor downward, arranging them with the highest numbers at the bottom. For example: What is the degree of kinship between Annie D. McGavock, No. 1026, and Spence McGavock, No. 1176?

Gen. I. James McGavock, common ancestor.
Gen. II. Hugh McGavock, No. 2. David McGavock, No. 3. Brothers.
Gen. III. Robert McGavock, No. 17. Francis McGavock, No. 26. First cousins.
Gen. IV. Randal H. McGavock, No. 110. David H. McGavock, No. 169. Second cousins.
Gen. V. Thomas E. McGavock, No. 375. Frank O. McGavock, No. 558. Third cousins.
Gen. VI. Annie D. McGavock, No. 1026. Spence McGavock, No. 1176. Fourth cousins.

The lineage upward, of the following names, is found in the same manner to meet in David McGavock, No. 3.

Lucie Harris, 536, dau. of Lucinda McGavock, 157, dau. of James McGavock, 24.

Kitty McFerrin, 546, dau. of Tennessee McGavock, 165, dau. of John McGavock, 25.

Myra L. McGavock, 556, dau. of David S. McGavock, 178, son of Randal McGavock, 27.

Bettie Hays, 604, dau. of Emily McGavock, 190, dau. of Lysander McGavock, 30.

Second cousins. First cousins. Brothers.

The first date after the name is the date of birth, the second that of marriage, the third that of death; these are generally abbreviated thus, b., m., d. Son, daughter, grandson, granddaughter, etc., are sometimes abbreviated, s., dau., gr. s., g. gr. s., etc. Rem. stands for removed, res. for resides, unm. for unmarried.

Where names are abbreviated and dates omitted, the full name and the dates will be found in the next generation, where the number is carried forward, whenever it has been possible.

THE McGAVOCK FAMILY

GENERATION I

"Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations: ask thy father, and he will show thee; thy elders, and they will tell thee."—Deut., xxxii, 7.

James McGavock, Sen., 1, was born 1728, in the county of Antrim, Ireland, near Glenarm, and emigrated in early life to America, leaving a widowed mother and an only brother, Randal, at the homestead, called Carnton. He landed at Philadelphia, and soon sought employment in the business he had been accustomed to, viz: that of farming. Tradition says, that, having acquired the means, he purchased a wagon and team, and for a time was engaged in carrying provisions for the army under Gen. Braddock. He must, therefore, have come to America about 1754-55. He came to that part of Augusta county, Va., which is now Rockbridge county, previous to or in the early part of 1757, as there is a land indenture endorsed, "from Samuel McDowell and Mary, his wife, to James McGavock, and proven in open court, 17 March, 1757; signed, John Madison, Cl'k." This paper is among the old papers at Fort Chiswell.

In the year 1760, he married Mary Cloyd, daughter of David Cloyd, Sr., and Margaret Campbell, and sister to Elizabeth Cloyd, wife of James McDowell, who was the father of James McDowell, who married Sarah Preston, and these last were the parents of the late Hon. James McDowell, Governor of Virginia. From Rockbridge he removed to what was then Fincastle county, Va., now Wythe, and settled at Fort Chiswell, which was embraced in a large body of land purchased by him, and is still in the possession of some of his descendants.

"Mr. McGavock came of that remarkable people, the Scotch-Irish, who have done so much for the liberties of this country, and for education generally, and the dissemination of Presbyterian principles, especially in Pennsylvania, Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee. As an Old-Countryman he understood the solid value of land. Like an Old-Countryman, also, he wished to found a family with landed estates. In this he was eminently successful," acquiring by his aptitude for business and his industry and energy, large and valuable bodies of land.

With credit to himself, and general satisfaction to the public, he filled several important offices of honor and trust.

He was a magistrate when that office was entrusted only to men fitted for the responsible duties of the place. He must have held the office of commissary, being entrusted with the disposal of provisions for the Continental army, as the following receipt, now in the possession of his descendants at Fort Chiswell, will show:

Fort Chiswell, Sept. 13, 1776.

Received of James McGavock six bushels of Corn out of the public Magazine, for the use of three Wagons under my care on the Cherokee Expedition.

JOHN BOWNAN.

He was one of the committee of fifteen, consisting of such men as Rev. Charles Cummings, William Campbell, Colonel William Preston, Captain Stephen Trigg, Major Arthur Campbell, and others, appointed by the citizens of Fincastle county, Va., to draft resolutions expressive of the privileges and rights they as free men possessed; and declaring their determination "never to surrender those rights to any power on earth but at the expense of their lives." These resolutions were adopted January 20, 1775, four months before the Mecklenburg, N. C., declaration. They were forwarded to the Continental Congress, at Philadelphia, and can be seen in the Congressional Library, at Washington, D. C., and the State Library, Richmond, Va. He was an affectionate husband, kind father, social companion, and generous benefactor. An instance of his noble generosity is to this effect:

"When he first landed in this country, four other young Irishmen, his companions 'en voyage,' were about to be sold to pay their passage-money; thereupon he promptly volunteered to part with all his means, save one pound, rather than see his fellow-countrymen subjected to such humiliation."

Noble generosity and self-denial—evincing the truth, that a sympathising heart and an open hand are greater riches than stores of wealth with a grasping, callous soul. "There is that maketh himself poor, yet hath great riches." Prov. xiii, 7. His many pounds freed his fellow-countrymen: his one pound gained for himself and his numerous descendants many thousands.

Mr. McGavock, who in stature was full six feet in height, stout of frame, and with a constitution to endure labor and stand exposure, lived to be over fourscore years of age, and died at the home of his youngest son, Joseph, at Max-Meadow, 22 March, 1812, and is buried at the family cemetery at Fort Chiswell. His widow, who survived him fifteen years, was born in Rockbridge county, Va., 14 March, 1741, and died at her son-in-law's, Colonel Joseph Kent, 5 March, 1827.

They had five sons and five daughters, as follows:

GENERATION II

"Irresistible Time! . . . .
. . . . . Behold,
Earth's proudest boast, beneath thy silent sway,
Sweep headlong to destruction, thou the while
Unmoved and heedless."—KIRKE WHITE.

"For death and life, with ceaseless strife,
Beat wild on this world's shore,
And all our calm is in that balm,
Not lost, but gone before."—HON. MRS. NORTON.

HUGH McGAVOCK, 2, son of James, Sen., born in Rockbridge county, Va., 25 September, 1761, married, first, a Miss Campbell, whose parents—their names unknown—resided on Cripple creek, Wythe county, Va. She survived her marriage a very short time. He next married Nancy Kent, daughter of Jacob Kent and Mary, nee Crockett, of Montgomery county, Va., 29 March, 1785. She was born 11 December, 1763, was the sister of Colonel Joseph Kent, who married Margaret McGavock, No. 6, and belonged to a family distinguished in Revolutionary annals: three of her uncles, Colonels Hugh, Andrew and Walter Crockett being officers in the Revolutionary war. She died 10 February, 1835. By well authenticated tradition he was in a volunteer company under Colonel Joseph Crockett in the Revolutionary war to repel an invasion by the Indians on the Ohio frontier. He died at his home at Max-Meadow, Wythe county, Va., 2 April, 1844.

23. Sally, 4 August, 1805, m. John H. Otey, 10 October, 1848, d. 19 February, 1872, No issue.

David McGavock, 3, son of James, Sen., born in Rockbridge county, Va., 6 February, 1763, married, first, Elizabeth McDowell, daughter of James McDowell and Elizabeth Cloyd, his wife, 16 June, 1789. She was born in Rockbridge county, Va., ——— and died there, while on a visit, ———, 1807. She was first cousin to her husband, and also to General Gordon Cloyd, Thomas and David Cloyd, sons of Colonel Joseph Cloyd, all late of Pulaski county, Va., and the aunt of the late Governor James McDowell, of Virginia, and of the wife of the Hon. Thomas H. Benton, late U. S. Senator from Missouri.

David McGavock was one of the early settlers of Nashville. In 1786 he had located in and around the settlement, in the names of his father and himself, 2,240 acres of the best land he could find, including a tract of several hundred acres around Freeland's station. He came to Tennessee a surveyor, for which he was fitted by a liberal education and great physical power of endurance. His good judgment is yet apparent in the location of lands taken up and purchased by him in Davidson and Williamson counties, Tennessee. He inherited in a large measure the energy, indomitable will, and integrity of his honored father—traits of character ensuring success, and qualifying him to be a prominent and safe leader in a newly settled country. He made Nashville his permanent residence in 1795. In 1806 he was elected by the legislature of Tennessee, Register of the Land Office, and was the incumbent thereof until his death, which occurred 7 August, 1838.

His second wife was the widow Mary Hubble (nee Turner), whom he married in 1812. She was born in North Carolina, and died in Nashville, 1834. By her he had two sons. By his first wife he had nine children, in all eleven.

34. Albert, September, 1814, d. 28 October, 1836.

JAMES McGAVOCK, 4, son of James, Sen., born 10 June, 1764, married Mary Crockett, 24 April, 1799, and died 12 May, 1838. She, daughter of James Crockett and Mary Drake his wife, was born 23 May, 1778, and died 27 November, 1826.

James McGavock lived and died at the old homestead, Fort Chiswell. The house, composed partly of logs, was burned down in 1901, and being on the main road from Lynchburg, Va., to Knoxville, Tenn., a road much used for transporting goods from the eastern markets to the west, and also a stage route, was long known as one of the best country taverns in Virginia. In that day, the travelling public demanding it, houses of entertainment were kept by not a few of the wealthiest and best families. Here General Andrew Jackson, travelling to and from Washington city by private conveyance, often stayed, being a personal friend of this McGavock and of others, especially David, Randal and Jacob, of Tennessee.

The Fort Chiswell land was originally granted, by the Crown, to Thomas Walker; and the fort, built for defence against the Indians, was named for Captain Chiswell, an English officer. Tradition assigns it the honor of being the place where General Morgan, of Revolutionary fame, received 500 lashes for resenting an insult put upon him by an officer in the British army; this however is very doubtful.

RANDAL McGAVOCK, 5, son of James, Sen., born in Rockbridge county, Va., 20 June, 1766, married Sarah Dougherty Rodgers, 28 February, 1811. She, daughter of John Rodgers and Anne Philips his wife, and sister to the wife of Hon. Felix Grundy, was born 1 April, 1786, and died 28 December, 1854. He accompanied his brother David to Tennessee, aiding him first in his surveys, and afterward as his deputy in the Land Office. For several years he was Clerk of Circuit Court of Davidson county, Tennessee, also Clerk of the Supreme Court of Errors and Appeals, and in 1824-25 was Mayor of the city of Nashville. He removed to Williamson county, Tennessee, in 1825, where he resided until his death, 27 September, 1844.

ELIZABETH MCGAVOCK, 9, daughter of James, Sen., born 5 July, 1776, married her first cousin, General Gordon Cloyd, March, 1797, and died 5 September, 1830. He, son of Joseph Cloyd and Elizabeth (nee Gordon), was born 9 March, 1771, and died 4 May, 1833. General Cloyd was a man of sterling integrity, of superior mind, and well educated. For many years he was surveyor of the county of Montgomery, Va., embracing then what is now Pulaski, and parts of Wythe and Giles counties. His profession made him thoroughly acquainted with the best lands of the southwest portion of Virginia, which rivals the famous blue grass regions of Kentucky, and he and his brothers, Thomas and David, invariably consulting each other and working together, an example to all brothers, acquired jointly large bodies of land, also owning large estates separately.

GENERATION III

"Stern tide of human Time! that know'st not rest,
But, sweeping from the cradle to the tomb,
Bear'st ever downward on thy dusk breast,
Successive generations to their doom."—SCOTT.

JAMES MCGAVOCK, 12, son of Hugh, born in Wythe county, Va., 1 April, 1786, removed to Tennessee; married Lucinda Ewing, 18 December, 1810, and died, 12 October, 1833. She, daughter of Captain Alexander Ewing * and Sally Smith, his wife, was born in Williamson county, Tenn., 10 December, 1792, and died 21 April, 1848.

* Captain Ewing was born in Virginia, March 10, 1752. He was first lieutenant, and afterwards, for three years, captain in the Virginia line, during the Revolutionary war. Resigning his commission, he was made aide on General Greene's staff. He was wounded at the battle of Guilford, and rendered unfit for further service during the war.

JOSEPH McGAVOCK, 13, son of Hugh, Sen., born in Wythe county, Va., 14 June, 1787, married Sally Hay, of Wytheville, Va. She, daughter of William Hay and Martha, nee Buchanan, was born March 18, 1801, and died March 5, 1837. He resided several years in Tennessee, returned to Virginia, and afterwards moved to Carroll county, Ky., where he died 15 June, 1853. He was a captain in the War of 1812, and acquired some reputation as a soldier and officer.

JACOB McGAVOCK, 15, son of Hugh, born at Max-Meadow, Wythe county, Va., 20 September, 1790, married Louisa Caroline Grundy, 11 May, 1819, and died at the residence of his son-in-law, Dr. J. Berrian Lindsley, Nashville, Tenn., December 8, 1878.

He was one of the oldest and wealthiest citizens of Nashville, to which place he came in 1807, for the purpose of completing his education at Cumberland College, then under the presidency of the famous James Priestly; but soon after entered the office of his uncle Randal, the then clerk of the Circuit Court. In 1813 he volunteered in the Creek war, and was one of General Andrew Jackson's aides, but being disabled by a wound in the battle of Enotochopco, 24 January, 1814, he was honorably discharged.

He was severally County, Circuit and United States Circuit Clerk, for half a century, occupying the last position at the breaking out of the Civil war in 1861. His wife, born at Bardstown, Ky., 10 February, 1798, and died at Nashville, 19 January, 1878, was the eldest daughter of Hon. Felix Grundy, one of the ablest lawyers and statesmen of his day, member of Congress, Attorney-General of the United States and United States Senator, to which last position he was twice elected.

"It has always been conceded that Mrs. McGavock inherited, to a marked degree, the talents of her distinguished father.

"She was a lady of very high culture, a fine conversationalist, kind, generous and charitable: a good wife, a good mother and a good Christian."

She was the mother of thirteen children.

"Three of her sons served with distinction in the Confederate army, one of whom, Randal William, colonel of the 10th Tennessee regiment, was killed at Raymond, Miss., at the head of his gallant Irish regiment."

Both Mr. and Mrs. McGavock were members for many years of the First Presbyterian Church, Nashville.

MARGARET McGAVOCK, 20, daughter of Hugh, born at Max-Meadow, Wythe county, Va., 12 March, 1800, married Rev. Samuel McNutt, 2 October, 1819, and died at Rockville, Ind., 19 July, 1845. Mr. McNutt was born in Rockbridge county, Va., in 1790, and removed to Wythe county, Va., about 1815, where he taught a school and was pastor of "Anchor and Hope Church." The house of worship, built of logs, still stands on the McGavock lands, near Max-Meadow. Here the elder McGavocks, many of the Kents, Crocketts, Grahams and other Presbyterian families were accustomed to worship. The name is singular. This part of the valley of Reed creek was called the "Valley of Contention and Strife," two parties bitterly and long contending at law for the ownership. One of them, as he closed his survey, striking his staff in the ground exclaimed: "Here is my anchor and hope: here, in this valley of contention, I end the strife." Hence the name; and on that spot, the starting point and terminus of that survey, the church was built. Mr. McNutt was also pastor of New Dublin Church, having been installed over it in 1816. His pastorate over these churches closed in 1828, when he removed to Rockville, Ind., where he died 21 January, 1869.

ELIZA MCDOWELL MCGAVOCK, 21, dau. of Hugh, born at Max-Meadow, Wythe county, Va., 4 December, 1801, married Dr. Andrew B. Ewing, 1 May, 1821. For nearly fifty-five years they lived together, happy in each other's esteem, confidence and love. As wife, mother, neighbor and Christian she was an example and pattern for all. After years of slow wasting and much suffering, patiently borne, she died, 6 January, 1876. "Her children arise up, and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praiseth her."

The following sketch is condensed from an article by another:

"Andrew B. Ewing, son of William Ewing and Margaret Love, his wife, was born at Barton's Station (a block house), in Davidson county, Tenn., 27 July, 1796, trained in the best schools of his time, at one time a pupil of the celebrated Gideon Blackburn, D. D., completing the full course at Cumberland College, Nashville, and reading medicine in the office of Dr. Roane, he graduated at the Medical University of New York in 1819, and immediately afterwards settled in Franklin, Tenn. He soon laid the foundation of confidence in the hearts of the people, which grew with his years and was maintained to the last. His congeniality, liveliness, entertaining conversation, and suaviter in modo made him a pleasing companion, welcomed in every social circle; and these qualities stood him in good part in his profession, eminently fitting him for practice among the gentler sex. He was remarkable for his politeness, to the young as well as to the aged, alike at home and abroad.

"By the unanimous voice of the Williamson County Medical Society, notwithstanding his reluctance to occupy positions of prominence, he was made its President, which post he filled with signal dignity and ability.

"A decided and consistent Christian and member of the Presbyterian Church, he filled his place sans peur et sans reproache.

"Having retired from the active duties of his profession upon the completion of its fiftieth anniversary, and being past threescore years of age, he spent the remaining years of his life in quietude, but not in indolence, at his home near Franklin, Tenn., amid his children and grandchildren, at whose hands he received respectful veneration and loving attention up to the time of his death, which occurred May 15, 1881."

"Francis McGavock came to Nashville, with his parents, when but two years old, and was educated at its University under Dr. Priestly. In early life he had charge of the State Office for the registration of lands. For half a score or more of years he was Clerk of the Chancery Court at Nashville." An intimate friend says of him: "He was a man of large public spirit and strong personal attachments, a true specimen of the Old School gentleman. Dignified in bearing, but kind of heart, the unworthy approached him with awe, his equals with respectful ease. Hospitable almost to a fault, and ever ready to extend the hand of help to the needy and worthy, he lived as near the 'Golden Rule' as any ever did."

By his energy and industry he added largely to his estate, being possessed at his decease, which occurred 23 December, 1866, of valuable houses and lots in Nashville, and lands in Davidson and Cheatham counties, Tenn.

LYSANDER McGAVOCK, 30, son of David, born in Nashville, Tenn., 22 October, 1800, m. Elizabeth Crockett, daughter of James Crockett and Mary (nee Drake), 5 December, 1822. She was youngest sister to the wife of James McGavock, No. 4, and was born in Wythe county, Va., 7 September, 1795, and died 31 January, 1862. They lived at his beautiful farm, Midway, Williamson county, Tenn., where he died 5 August, 1855. A scene unusual and long to be remembered was that, when this widowed mother, with four daughters and two sons-in-law, together stood up and before the world confessed Christ. The generous hospitality and social Christian converse of Midway we have often enjoyed.

John McGavock, 49, son of Randal, born in Tennessee, 2 April, 1815, married Caroline Winder, 8 December, 1848. She, daughter of Van P. Winder and Martha Anne Grundy, his wife, and granddaughter of Hon. Felix Grundy, was born 9 December, 1829. A custom of Mrs. McGavock's we note with pleasure, and commend to all who have the means of doing likewise. It has been her habit for years to take to her house from two to three orphans, generally from the asylum in New Orleans, to act as household servants; at the same time educating them, giving special attention to their religious training, and when they are of age paying the outfit agreed upon, and finding them suitable homes and employment. We have seen the fatherless and motherless little ones as happy as larks, and as gentlemanly and ladylike in their deportment as the most fastidious could desire.

Mr. McGavock was a successful farmer on a large scale, and in his dignified but pleasing manners reminded one of a gentleman of the olden time. He has always avoided public life, the comforts of home and the retirement of private life being more congenial to his tastes. He died 7 June, 1893.

ELIZABETH IRWIN McGAVOCK, 52, daughter of Randal, born 17 May, 1819, married Gen. William Giles Harding, 2 January, 1840, and died 9 August, 1867. He, son of John Harding and his wife, Susannah Shute, and brother to the wife of Francis McGavock, No. 26, was born in Davidson county, Tenn., 15 September, 1808. He graduated at "The American Literary and Scientific Academy," at Middletown, Conn., Capt. Partridge, formerly superintendent at West Point, being the Principal. His certificate, the only one given in Capt. Partridge's handwriting, closes thus: "I hereby recommend William G. Harding, a graduate of this institution, as a scholar, a gentleman and a soldier, to all whom it may concern."

He lived at his beautiful farm, "Belle Meade," near Nashville, and had a national reputation for raising the best blooded stock, especially horses. By his second wife, Elizabeth I., he had several children. He died —— ——.

DAVID FENTON KENT, 65, son of Col. Joseph, born in Wythe county, Va., 24 December, 1807, married Elizabeth Cloyd, No. 73, 2 January, 1834, and died 28 January, 1850. In physique he was a noble specimen of a man, and his ready wit and genial humour, with a rich fund of anecdotes, made him an exceedingly entertaining companion in the social circle. His widow, who was born 24 August, 1816, survived him nineteen years, and died 7 February, 1869.

MARGARET CLOYD, 79, daughter of David. (See Gordon Cloyd Kent, No. 64.)

JOSEPH CLOYD, 80, son of David, born in that part of Montgomery which is now Pulaski county, Va., 11 May, 1813, married, 23 May, 1838, Mary E. Byars, daughter of Col. William Byars and Elizabeth (nee Beatty). She was born in Washington county, Va., 23 October, 1813.

In departing from the plan of not putting under a head number, and not recording a second time the name of one who is without children, I do so in this instance, because Joseph Cloyd deserves a prominent place in the history of this family, and because of the intimate and friendly relations between him and myself. I lived in his house two years, was his pastor six years; he largely aided and warmly befriended me in times of trouble and difficulty, and so I learned to know and appreciate his worth as a Christian and a friend, his usefulness as a citizen and an officer in the church, he being a Ruling Elder in the New Dublin Church, of which I was pastor from 1866 to 1872. Major Cloyd was one of the most experienced and successful farmers and graziers in Southwest Virginia, and was one of the first to introduce thoroughbred Durham cattle in that section of the State. His excellent judgment, large experience, and untiring industry procured him the position of Purchasing Agent for the Southwestern District, from the Confederate Government, with the rank of Major, which office he ably filled, holding it until the close of the war. His wife, Mary, in her sphere was his equal, and, co-operating together, the good estates each inherited have been largely increased. Not blessed with children of their own, the children of others, already largely benefitted by them, have reason to rise up and call them blessed. Major Cloyd died 19 July, 1884. Mrs. Cloyd died 23 May, 1892.

CYNTHIA MARY CLOYD, 82, daughter of David, born in Pulaski county, Va., 18 February, 1820, married David Shall McGavock, son of Randal McGavock and Almira (nee Haynes), 31 July, 1844, and died 15 August, 1847.

GENERATION IV

"I saw Old Time, destroyer of mankind;
Calm, stern, and cold he sat, and often shook
And turned his glass, nor ever cared to look
How many of life's sands were still behind."

WM. HENRY WHITWORTH.

Nathaniel Lawrence, Attorney-General of the State of New York, and granddaughter of John Berrien, Chief Justice of the Province of New Jersey under the "old regime." His father, Rev. Philip Lindsley, was Chancellor of the University of Nashville for twenty-five years, and had a national reputation as an educator.

"J. B. Lindsley graduated at the University of Nashville in 1839, and in medicine in Louisville in 1843. His medical studies were preparatory to the ministry, to which he was ordained by the Presbytery of Nashville, October, 1846. In 1855 he was unanimously chosen Chancellor of his alma mater, and was one of the founders of its medical department.

"In 1867 he organized the Montgomery Bell Academy, and the same year brought forward the idea of a great normal college in connection with the 'Peabody Educational Fund.' " To him is ascribed the origin of the idea of the Nashville Centennial, which was attended with the greatest success, in May, 1880. Other positions of responsibility he has successfully filled, and has ever been a warm advocate of all that promotes the well-being of man. Dr. Lindsley died 7 December, 1897. Mrs. Lindsley died July, 1903.

"How the stately years march onward!—how the centuries increase!
How the cycles roll and gather!—how the lives of mortals cease!
Life is but a repetition; for the man who lives to-day,
Loves and hopes, like countless millions who have lived and passed away."

ADDENDA

Among the many families connected with the McGavocks, some members of which were distinguished for intelligence and usefulness, there are those deserving a more particular and extended notice than is given them in the body of this book. Of these we select a few; and first are the

CLOYDS.

It is a family tradition that soon after the raising of the siege of Londonderry, Ireland, which occurred in 1689, three brothers, James, Joseph and David Cloyd, left Ireland, came to America, and settled in Chester county, Penn., where, it seems, many of the Protestant-Irish and Scotch-Irish of that day settled; many of them remaining there to bring up families of useful citizens, and many others removing thence in after years to the "Valley of Virginia," whose descendants, as Christians and patriots, have given tone to that beautiful and prosperous section of the mother of States of this great Republic.

One of these three immigrants, James Cloyd, born about 1780, was at the siege of Derry when only nine years of age. He remained in Chester county, Pa., during his life and died there in 1769. He had among other children a son James, who was born 1707, married Margaret Wilson, and died 1803, aged 96. He lived at Whiteland, Chester county, Pa., and had a family of several children. Some of his descendants still reside in Chester and Montgomery counties, Pa.

Of Joseph Cloyd, the immigrant, but little is known. By some of that particular branch of the family he is sometimes confounded with a Michael Cloyd, who is said to have been an immigrant brother of James and David. But this we think is a mistake. There was a Michael who lived at Amsterdam, Va., and there is in the possession of Joseph G. Kent, son of the late Gordon C. Kent, of Wythe county, Va., a letter in which mention is made of "Michael Cloyd, uncle of Gordon Cloyd." This uncle Michael must then have been a brother of Colonel Joseph Cloyd, son of David the immigrant, and could not have been himself an immigrant.

Of David Cloyd, Sen., we can speak more confidently. Coming from Ireland with his brothers James and Joseph, he settled first in Chester county, Pa. He moved thence to Delaware and bought land in New Castle county. In 1733 he sold his land in Delaware, bought in Augusta county, Va., in 1745, and moved to make his residence there for life.

David Cloyd's wife, who was Margaret, nee Campbell, and his son John were killed by the Indians, the attack being made while the men were at work in a distant field. Waddell in his "Annals of Augusta County," page 126, refers to David Cloyd's house being rifled by the Indians in 1764, and his bringing suit in 1766 to recover some of the money which was found on a dead Indian. The date of his death is uncertain. In his will he mentions the following children, viz: James, David, Michael, Elizabeth and Margaret, omitting Mary and Joseph.

David Cloyd, second son of David, Sen., married Elizabeth ———. They had nine children.

Michael Cloyd, son of David, Sen., married Elizabeth Neely. They had eight sons and one daughter, Betsy.

Elizabeth Cloyd, eldest daughter of David, Sen., married James McDowell, second son of John McDowell and Magdalen, nee Woods, and grandson of Ephriam McDowell, the immigrant, and his wife Margaret, nee Irvine.

James McDowell and Elizabeth Cloyd, his wife, had three children, viz: James, who married Sarah Preston, daughter of Col. William Preston, and granddaughter of John Preston, the immigrant.

James and Sarah (Preston) McDowell were the parents of James McDowell, several years member of the Virginia Legislature, member of Congress, member of the Virginia Convention of 1829-30, Governor of Virginia. James and Sarah (Preston) McDowell were also the parents of Elizabeth McDowell, wife of Hon. Thomas H. Benton, who for thirty successive years was United States Senator from Missouri, and also the parents of Susan McDowell, wife of Col. William Taylor, of Alexandria, Va.

Elizabeth McDowell, daughter of James McDowell and Elizabeth, nee Cloyd, married her first cousin, David McGavock, the second child of James McGavock and Mary, nee Cloyd.

Sarah McDowell another daughter of James McDowell and Elizabeth, Cloyd, his wife, married her first cousin Maj. John McDowell, son of Judge Samuel McDowell and his wife Mary McClung. This Major McDowell was a captain in the Revolutionary War. Was with Washington at the crossing of the Delaware, fought at Princeton, Trenton, and at Brandywine, at which latter place he was severely wounded, but was at the surrender at Yorktown. He served as major in the War of 1812, represented the county of Fayette, Ky., in the State Legislature for six elections, and was a member of the Convention of Kentucky that framed the State Constitution that lasted fifty years.

Mary Cloyd, daughter of David, Sen., who married James McGavock has already been spoken of, but it is eminently proper to refer to her clear intellect, untiring industry, and strong willpower; characteristics which doubtless greatly aided her husband in his business affairs wherein he was so successful.

Joseph Cloyd, son of David, Sen., was born 10 June, 1742, married Mary Gordon, and died 3 August, 1833. They had three sons, Gordon, Thomas and David. He moved from Rockbridge county, Va., to Montgomery, now Pulaski county, and settled on Back creek, the place being still in the possession of his great-grandchildren. It is related of his wife that she would not consent to come to this then backwoods country unless her husband promised that as soon as he was comfortably settled he would take the necessary steps to have a Presbyterian church built, in which she might worship after the manner and forms she had been accustomed to do. This promise he fulfilled, and the result was the erection of a house of worship, and in due time the organization of a Presbyterian church, which still exists and is known as New Dublin Church, one mile north of Dublin Depot.

Joseph Cloyd in early life, while yet only thirty-two years of age, was honored with a commission as captain of a company of militia of the county of Fincastle, by Earl Dunmore, Governor of Virginia. This commission was dated Williamsburg, Va., 8 March, 1774. In 1779 he was appointed by Governor Thomas Jefferson a major of militia in Colonel Wm. Preston's Battallion of 300, in the county of Montgomery, Va. These two commissions are in the possession of his great-grandson, David McNutt Cloyd. He was also engaged in the battles of Guilford, Cowpens and King's Mountain, and was promoted colonel. He died aged 91 years and over. He had four children, Gordon, Thomas, David, and a daughter who married her cousin Joseph Cloyd, of Amsterdam, Va. She died leaving no issue. The three brothers are spoken of in the body of this book.

KENT

The best authenticated information we have concerning the Kent family of southwest Virginia comes through Mrs. Jane Buford, a daughter of Jacob Kent, Sen. The few facts about to be related were given by Mrs. Buford to members of the family of the third generation, and transmitted by them to the descendants still living.

Jacob Kent was born in England about 1730, and emigrated to America, sailing from Amsterdam, Holland, with two other brothers, and landed at New York about 1750. Leaving his brothers in New York he came to Virginia and settled in that part of Augusta county which is now Montgomery, living on his estate called Edge Hill. He married Mary Crockett, daughter of Joseph Crockett and Jane, nee Divinnee, by whom he had five children, viz: John, who married a Miss Barnett; Jane, who married, first, Maj. Thomas Quirk, by birth Irish, and an officer in the Continental Army. He dying, she married Henry Buford, of Bedford county, Virginia, and herself died at an advanced age; then Nancy, who married Hugh McGavock, Sen.; then Jacob, who died unmarried; and lastly Joseph, who married Margaret McGavock. He inherited the Fortheringay estate in Montgomery county which he exchanged for the home he lived and died at on Reed creek, Wythe county, Virginia. See Margaret McGavock, No. 6. page 3.

Jacob Kent the immigrant lived but a few years after his marriage. His widow survived him many years, and died March, 1826, being 86 years of age. She had several brothers, of whom Colonel Hugh, Colonel Andrew and Colonel Walter were Revolutionary officers in the Continental army. Two of the brothers, Andrew and Walter, removed to Kentucky and left numerous descendants.

They are related, but rather distantly, to those of the name now living in southwest Virginia.

Of the descendants of the brothers of Jacob Kent, Sen., we have no certain knowledge; but it is more than probable that Chancellor Kent, of New York, author of Kent's Commentaries, a work of great value to all lawyers, was descended from one of those brothers who came to America about the middle of the eighteenth century, as was also the late Horace L. Kent, for many years a wholesale dry goods merchant of Richmond, Va.

The Kents far outnumber any other of the descendants of James McGavock, except those bearing the McGavock name.

EWING

The name in all probability was originally "MacEwen," being Scotch. The MacEwens emigrated from Scotland to Ireland, and thence as Scotch-Irish to America. The name Ewen is Gaelic for John, and then Ewen MacEwen for son of John. The Mac was first left off to anglicise the name, or to shorten it. The g was added at a later period to make it more English, or to distinguish it from some other name in en or in. The e and i in such names being often interchanged.

Andrew Ewing, the ancestor of the Virginia and Tennessee Ewings, emigrated to America from the city of Belfast, Ireland, about 1720, and first settled in Pennsylvania, and thence moved to Rockbridge county, Va., and there resided until his death. Before leaving Ireland he married Eliza Milford. Of the above Andrew and Eliza was born Andrew, in Rockbridge county, Va., 15 March, 1740, and married Susannah Shannon, 1760, and died in Davidson county, Tenn. (whither they had moved), April, 1813.

To Andrew Ewing and Susannah were born: Andrew, who married Sallie Hickman; Margaret, who married Andrew Castleman; William, who married Margaret Love; Amelia, who married Moses Spear; Nathan, who married Sallie Hill, and Elizabeth who married Thomas Shannon.

A remarkable occurrence took place at the deaths of the brothers Andrew and Nathan Ewing, which occurred 1 May, 1830. A few moments before Andrew died he said: "I see that Nathan has gone before me." In a few hours a messenger from Nashville arrived in Franklin, Tenn., announcing the death of Nathan, of whose illness Andrew knew nothing. They died in a few moments of each other.

We cannot for want of space and time trace up all the different families of this branch of Ewings, but will refer only to the family of William Ewing, who married Margaret Love. He was born in Rockbridge county, Va., 29 November, 1771, married his wife 26 May, 1795, and died 24 November, 1845. They had twelve children, as follows: Andrew B., see Eliza McDowell McGavock, No. 21, page 5; Joseph L., see Sally McGavock, No. 32, page 6; Felix; Margaret; Susan S.; Milton P.; Eliza M.; William L.; Jessie H.; Cyrus G.; Margaret A.; Mary Jane.

This family of Ewings, as above recorded, is a different one though we suppose distantly related to that family referred to in a foot note on page 11 of this book. That Captain Ewing was raised by his uncle Robert Ewing, of Baltimore, Md. About 1785 he removed to Tennessee and settled on White's creek, Davidson county, where he lived until his death, April, 1822. He married Sallie Smith in 1787, and they had born to them the following children: John Love, James, Lucinda, see book page 11, William, Alexander C., Randal McGavock, Oscar Smith and William Black. The latter was the father of Dr. Ewing, of Nashville, who married a Miss Adams, and of the first wife of Hon. James Blackmore, of Gallatin, Tenn.
